

Phosphorbombe in Niestetal entdeckt: Anwohner müssen evakuiert werden!

In Niestetal wurde bei Baggerarbeiten eine Phosphorbombe aus dem Zweiten Weltkrieg entdeckt. Anwohner im Radius von 80 Metern werden evakuiert.

Am Brückenhof 18, 34266 Niestetal, Deutschland - In Niestetal, a shocking discovery during excavation works in Sandershausen has led to the unearthing of a World War II phosphorus bomb. The dangerous device was uncovered around 17:40 Uhr at Am Brückenhof 18, prompting immediate action from local authorities.

Due to the ongoing release of phosphorus, residents within an 80-meter radius are being evacuated as a precaution. Local officials are urging those nearby to keep all windows and doors shut until the bomb can be safely removed by the ordnance disposal team. The situation remains critical as experts work to mitigate the potential hazards associated with this explosive relic from the past.
